Impact on Domestic Consumers

More stable water pressure → improved comfort (showers, appliances).
Fewer supply interruptions and fewer emergency repairs near homes.
Lower household energy use from reduced booster pump operation.
Improved tap water quality with fewer pressure-induced contamination events.
Less noise and disruption around residential areas (fewer leaks/bursts).
Long-term tariff stability through reduced utility operating costs.